NANAIMO GRIEVANCES.

Postmaster General and Minister of Justice Petitioned

To Cause the Removal of Mail and Judicial Grievances.

(From our own Correspondent.)

At a meeting held in the City Hall, Nanaimo, on the 25th instant, the Mayor in the chair, supported by Mr. Gordon, M. P., and Mr. Thomson, M. P. P., the following addresses were presented to the Postmaster-General and the Minister of Justice:

To the Hon. A. W. McLELLAN, Postmaster General for the Dominion of Canada:

The Municipal Council and other citizens beg to welcome you to the City of Nanaimo, and at the same time to congratulate ourselves that your advent amongst us gives us an opportunity of bringing to your notice matters of grave importance to us and our interests. We refer especially to the necessity for increased mail facilities between the cities of Nanaimo and Vancouver and the districts adjacent to Nanaimo and north of us. Among the changes brought about by the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway, not the least important are the increase of commercial relations between Eastern Canada and this Province and the commencement of similar relations with China and Japan, through the establishment of the Oriental Steam-ship Line to Vancouver. So far, however, as this part of the Province is concerned, the beneficial results of these relations are minimized by the present roundabout systems of transportation from the terminal city of Vancouver. In one case, our mails and merchandise, instead of being conveyed direct from Vancouver, are transported by steamship to Victoria and thence by railway or steamship to Nanaimo, entailing the increased cost and risk of two transhipments in place of one, and increasing the distance to be covered from 50 to 150 miles. In the other case our merchandise is similarly transported to New Westminster and thence to Nanaimo, with a delay in many instances of a week, and an increase in distance of 30 or 40 miles. The merchant in Eastern Canada doing business in Nanaimo is thus put at a disadvantage in his competition with the merchant in the neighboring republic.

We would also draw attention to the fact that all other cities of importance in the Province have the advantage of direct daily communication with Vancouver and the East, and that despite its close proximity to Vancouver and its commercial necessities, Nanaimo is without such communication.

Under the present arrangements the Districts of Cariboo and Alberni are at a still greater disadvantage, and feel the effect in a still greater degree, in that a certain proportion of their Eastern mails and merchandise takes over a week in reaching them.

Eastern tourists and men of business are put to the unnecessary expense and delay in coming to Nanaimo, of having to retrace their route to Victoria, instead of being carried so far on their return journey eastward.

In view of the importance and steady growth of this district industrially and otherwise, in view of its being the largest exporter and of its possessing more tonnage than any other port of the Province, and in view of its central position and of its vast mineral resources, the development of which is constantly augmenting a daily and direct mail steamer to Vancouver is urgently called for, and we beg most earnestly to ask your favorable and prompt consideration of our request on a point so vitally affecting this city and district. We have every confidence that your own visit and that of the other members of the Dominion Cabinet to this Province will be beneficial in many ways, and we trust that your Western tour will be pleasant to yourself and family.

S. GOUGH, City Clerk. R. GIBSON, Mayor.
Nanaimo, 25th Aug., 1887.

To the Hon. J. S. D. THOMPSON, Minister of Justice for the Dominion of Canada:

The Municipality and the citizens of Nanaimo beg leave to welcome you to our city and trust that you may carry away with you pleasant recollections of your first visit amongst us.

We avail ourselves of your presence to bring before you, and through you to the attention of the Dominion Government, the disadvantages under which we are placed in reference to the administration of justice in civil matters, in consequence of not having a resident County Court Judge at Nanaimo.

The monthly County Court of Nanaimo is presided over by one of the Honorable Justices of the Supreme Court, acting as County Court Judge, who attends for the purpose from Victoria, but in consequence of the important and ever-increasing duties of the said Judges in the Superior Courts of British Columbia, it is found practically impossible to hold the County Court at the stated times, hence adjournment of more than half of the County Courts for Nanaimo take place often at the last moment, and legal business stands over and is delayed until a Judge can attend, and this at the great loss and disadvantage of our business men and others.

These postponements become so numerous that there is always uncertainty as to when a Court will really be held. During the fifteen months immediately previous to the present year, ten of these Courts were adjourned and closed over, and almost one-half of the Courts for the present year in like manner. A very large number of cases have stood over from the 3rd of this month and await trial on the 7th September next, some of these requiring prompt decision in the interests of the parties.

Add to from the traveling expenses of the Supreme Court Judges to attend at Nanaimo, it would seem quite unreasonable that a learned Judge of the Supreme Court of B. C. should have to sit on such trivial matters and trifling amounts as often come up in the County Court, jurisdiction being from the smallest sum of money in debt or damages. The only opportunities for applications in Probate matters are during the sitting of these Courts, and so in other matters necessarily arising.

In a business community like Nanaimo, its legal business is seriously delayed because between these Courts there is no Judge sitting in Chambers to whom applications can be made in the most urgent cases.

In these respects above stated, we believe Nanaimo has very strong claims, and we respectfully urge that you will kindly give these matters your earnest consideration, and urge them upon the Government at Ottawa, and we pray that a resident County Court Judge may be appointed for Nanaimo and outlying districts.

J. GOUGH, City Clerk. R. GIBSON, Mayor.
Nanaimo, 25th Aug., 1887.

The Postmaster-General, replying to the address presented him, recognized the desirability of establishing a mail route between Vancouver and Nanaimo, and referred to the advisability of redistributing the mail subsidies to the province, these subsidies being larger for British Columbia than for any other province of the Dominion. The Minister replied in an eloquent speech and threw upon the shoulders of the Provincial Legislature a great part of the inconveniences of our judicial system, and stated that he would press upon the Dominion Government as one of the cabinet such changes so far as the Dominion was concerned as would be conducive to the better administration of justice. Both ministers expressed themselves as highly gratified with their visit, and drove round and visited all points of interest in the neighborhood of Nanaimo. The honorable gentlemen were the guests of Mr. Gordon during their stay, and were also entertained at a lunch at the Central Hotel, (Mr. J. Webb's.)

In Brief and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember! No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

OUR MORAL CONDITION.

Two Visitors Go Back to Toronto and Libel Victoria.

The Toronto Mail of the 22nd inst. contains a notice of the addresses of Mr. Wm. Gooderham and Rev. Hugh Johnson, on "Religious Impressions of the West," on the first Sunday after their arrival. We copy the portions of most interest to Victorians:

Mr. Gooderham based his remarks upon Mark xvi., 15-16: "And He said unto them, go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned. And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them." * * * In Victoria, B.C., there was a great deal of wickedness, but Rev. J. E. Starr, late of Toronto, was working his eighty-ton guns and raising a commotion about it. He pointed out that the command given in the text was just as binding now as at the beginning, and that it is binding upon all the members of the church.

Rev. Hugh Johnston said the condition of morals on the Pacific coast he found to be very much below that of our cities here. In San Francisco not half the people go to church. Theatres and other places of amusement were largely attended on Sunday. In Victoria saloons are in full blast on Sunday. All, however, do not keep open, some of the keepers being so moral that they closed on the Sabbath. He thanked God for a Toronto Sabbath. The swearing in Victoria was terrible. Oaths don't count for anything unless the air is blue with them. There was a great deal of intemperance also. There were more grog shops in Victoria than all other stores put together, and one could hardly meet a man who did not stink of liquor. Then there was another sin, which because of a false modesty could not be dealt with in such a place. In Victoria and San Francisco whole streets were given to the social evil. Another idea which impressed him was the perfect humanness of Christ, His manhood and His ability to save all classes. In San Francisco Japanese young men and women were being converted and were going back to their own countries to act as missionaries. In Victoria and San Francisco they saw Chinese and Japanese in tens of thousands. A few steps take one from the language, customs and manners of our civilization to the language, customs and manners of the Chinese, as they could be seen in the heart of China. Among the Indian tribes in British Columbia the Gospel was making a Great change. The difference between the pagan and the Christian Indians was strongly marked and it could be seen in one village, on opposite sides of the same street. The reverend gentlemen concluded by urging those present to do all in their power to spread the Gospel.

INTERIOR NEWS.

Improvements at Kamloops—Kootenay Coal—New Gaol.

[From the Sentinel.]

Friday was a raw and cool day—indicating that rain was not far distant, although Kamloops did not get a drop.

The Odd Fellows of Kamloops marched from their lodge in full regalia to attend Divine service at the Presbyterian Church last Sunday.

Mr. George Loney, the ferryman, has gone up the North Thompson to open up a coal mine, and has left Mr. Dimsdale in charge of the ferry until he returns.

The Revs. Turner and Carpenter left Kamloops for Cariboo on Monday to be gone a month on church business.

The lumber is now on the ground for the projected Presbyterian Church at Kamloops.

McKillican & Anderson, builders, Victoria, have been awarded the contract for building the new goal at Kamloops. Their tendered price, we understand, was nearly $5,000. The structure will be commenced immediately, and will be finished by October.

Three patients, Charles Appleton, from Priest Valley; W. A. Ross, from Nicola; and Alfred Daniels, fireman of the ditched train, were received into the Royal Inland Hospital since our last visit, but none have been discharged. There are at present nine patients in the institution.

The members of the Land Board will meet at Kamloops on Saturday, the 24th September. The object of the meeting is to enable any settlers who have claims to Dominion lands to prefer the same, or other matters affecting such lands.

The agricultural meeting that was to have been held at the old court house last Saturday, lapsed for want of sufficient attendance. It is probable that another meeting will be called.

The new water-works were tested last Thursday evening in front of Mr. E. H. Jones' store. The hose worked like a charm and "scooted" water in a continuous stream over 100 feet of perpendicular ascent. Property in the old town will, doubtless, now go up in value, and insurances should be effected with less expense and trouble than formerly.

The Catholic Church edifice is now in shape, including the spire. When fully finished it will be an ornament to Kamloops as one of the prominent buildings of the town, and the elevated position of its site gives the structure a commanding appearance. This is the first building constructed upon the bench lands overlooking the town, and probably it will lead to other buildings being soon placed there.

A letter describing the finds of coal in the Kootenay district says: "On one seam they are in 35 feet, with a sunk shaft from the hanging to the foot-wall, a distance of 35 feet. Of this there are 30 feet of solid coal without a flaw in it. Other seams have from 7 to 14 feet of pure coal. All these seams are superimposed one above the other at distances varying from 40 to 100 feet apart. The coal is of a bright black and shining appearance, and makes a brilliant clear fire. No signs of sulphur can be detected."

Fish in Alaska.

The San Francisco Chronicle of the 24th says: Some apprehension has been expressed this year that the Columbia river was fished out, but the enormous catch along the Alaskan shores may indicate a begirs of the Columbia river salmon northward. These fish do emigrate some times in that way, in obedience to some law of their nature which pisciculturists have not yet learned, and it may be possible that the light catch in one place is to be accounted for by the extraordinary run in others.

FIREMEN AS INCENDIARIES.

PLAINSFIELD, N. J., Aug. 29.—Eight men, all members of No. 2 Engine Company, were arrested yesterday on a charge of arson. One of them confessed they had set fire to a number of places by using kerosene.

DEADLY ICE CREAM.

GALVESTON, Aug. 29.—About sixty persons were seized with symptoms of poisoning after having partaken of ice cream at a festival last night in Beaumont. A number of them are seriously ill, but no deaths are reported.

FIRE IN LOS ANGELES.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—A large frame building on Spring street, formerly known as the Palm Garden, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $10,000.

GOV. BARTLETT WORSE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Late this afternoon Governor Bartlett seemed to have suffered a slight relapse, and complained of his head and was otherwise in much pain.

DESPERADOES CAPTURED.

BENZON, A. T., Aug. 29.—Blunt, "Dick" Johnson, Joe Brown and two other desperadoes of the worst type were captured near here last night. They were arrested in connection with the late train robbery.

TRAVELING COUNTERFEITERS.

ALBUQUERQUE, Aug. 29.—The deputy sheriff of Sierra County yesterday arrested B. W. Ward and J. D. Simmons, who were traveling through the county in a wagon carrying a complete counterfeiting outfit, sowing spurious gold and silver coin wherever they went.

THROUGH NIAGARA.

BUFFALO, Aug. 29.—C. A. Berry, wagon maker, went through Niagara Rapids yesterday in a life-saving apparatus of his own invention. It is seven feet long, nearly five feet wide, and covered with water-proof canvas, the whole weighs 900 pounds. Only five minutes were spent in the Rapids. The adventurer was none the worse for his trip.

BLOODY BRUISERS.

OMAHA, Aug. 29.—A bloody fight between Jim Lindsay of this city and Sidney O'Larke of New York, took place yesterday, lasting ten rounds. It was won by Lindsay.

JOHN W. MACKAY INTERVIEWED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—John W. Mackay was seen at the Palace this afternoon by a reporter. Mr. Mackay has been the cause of so much gossip recently in connection with the wheat market here and in Chicago, that an authoritive statement from him is a matter of public interest, especially in view of the fact that spurious and contradictory interviews with him have been published in New York papers and reproduced here. In regard to the failure of Rosenfeld and Dresback, and the alleged connection of the Nevada Bank with wheat, Mr. Mackay said: "You may say from me that the bank doesn't own a bushel of wheat. It simply loaned money on wheat, much of which was stored in its own warehouse. Mr. Brander has complete management of the bank since the affliction of Mr. Flood's eyes compelled him to relinquish the personal supervision he has given to it ever since it was founded. A great mistake made by Mr. Brander. He was making too heavy loans on wheat at entirely too high a figure. I knew nothing of these loans until I reached New York, but you can see that whatever may be the losses on this wheat it will take months to settle as cargoes are now on the way to Liverpool. The Nevada Bank, which is equivalent to Flood and myself, will stand them. There has been bad business management shown, but that the bank has been a party to this wheat speculation is false. To prove this statement I am willing to submit my personal accounts and books of the bank to any competent expert in San Francisco, who may be selected. If he finds any single item connecting me or the bank with a single purchase of wheat, then I shall be willing to put up any sum that may be agreed on, and what is more than this I am willing that Rosenfeld & Dresback should be put on the stand to-morrow and questioned regarding their connection with the bank. They will swear as I would on my oath that the bank merely loaned this money to them and had absolutely no interest in the wheat deal.

REVOLUTION IN HAVANA.

HAVANA, Aug. 29.—Great excitement prevails here on account of the recent acts of Captain-General Martin in taking possession of the custom house and placing the officials under arrest. The city is in charge of regular troops, and the situation is becoming more desperate, resulting the events attending the massacre of medical students in 1871. A reign of terror prevails, and it is expected Havana will be declared in a state of seige. Already several conflicts have occurred between the troops and civilians, resulting in the killing of one and the wounding of others. The Captain-General has issued a proclamation calling on the rioters to maintain order, otherwise severe measures will be adopted to uphold the law. A general uprising is imminent.

The city is placarded with calls for a general mass meeting at the park to-night, requesting all to bring arms. So far the Captain-General controls the situation. Artillery have been placed in a commanding position and will be stationed in towns adjoining the city. They are kept under arms ready to move at a moment's notice. The Queen's regiment is under arms at the Cabanas and Castilla del Principles.

It is generally thought the result will be to hasten Pranzini's execution.

THE BULGARIAN QUESTION.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 29.—M. Volkovitch, the Bulgarian representative, here has informed the Porte that the Bulgarian government is ready to pay £150,000 on account, and to negotiate for the remainder of the Roumelian tribute, and contribute to the Turkish debt charge. Baron Blanc, Italian ambassador here, had a private interview with the Sultan yesterday. It is reported he urged the Sultan to sanction the appointment of Prince Ferdinand and thus terminate the trouble between England and Austria, and gain the support of Italy in this policy.

BERLIN, Aug. 29.—It is rumored here that Russia has decided to take independent action in Bulgaria, and send a governor there, unless Turkey intervenes quickly and puts an end to the crisis. According to the published interview, Prince Ferdinand complains bitterly that he is now in a difficult position, being deserted by those who advised him to go there.

WESTMINSTER DEDICATION.

Continuation of the Proceedings of Saturday Last.

THE ODD FELLOWS'.

When our dispatches left New Westminster on Saturday the Odd Fellows' part of the ceremony of laying the corner stone was in progress. Grand Master Joshua Davies, of Victoria, laid the stone according to the usage provided for in the ritual of the order, in Love, in Truth, in Benevolence and Charity. The Deputy Grand Master then declared the stone duly laid, after which the Grand Chaplain in an earnest manner addressed the Throne of Grace. The Grand Master then addressed the brethren of New Westminster Lodge No. 3, declaring that the duty assigned to them had been performed. A good work had been begun and it remained for them to finish it. He trusted that the craft would erect a Temple worthy of being dedicated to the great cause of humanity and which would reflect honor upon their craft in behalf. The benediction was then pronounced by the Grand Chaplain and the procession reformed, and marched to their respective lodges. On Saturday the contents of the box deposited in the cavity underneath the corner stone were published in THE TIMES.

THE BANQUET.

At half past 8 o'clock about 175 brethren sat down to dinner in the skating rink presided over by W. M. W. A. Duncan, Master of Union Lodge No. 9, A.F.& A. M., New Westminster, and by the Noble Grand of New Westminster Lodge I. O. O. F., supported by Grand Lodge officers. The table was a pleasant sight to see, loaded as it was with everything one could wish for. Seated at it was a body of men, representing the two foremost orders of the continent. The usual loyal toast having been given C. R. Monck, N. G., gave the toast, the Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M., of British Columbia. With the toast the name of the Most Worshipful the Grand Master was coupled. It was received with enthusiasm, and responded to by that worthy brother in a happy congratulatory, florid style. W. M. Duncan then gave the toast The Grand Lodge of British Columbia, I. O. O. F., coupling with it the name of Grand Master Davies, who holding a membership in both orders in his reply drew comparisions and showed how both orders were really working for the same object. He plainly showed the difference in the conducting of their fiscal affairs; the O. F.'s being bound by law to give a weekly benefit, the Masons dispensing charities when needed only. Continuing, he said that this was the first time of his ever having heard of the two orders uniting for any object. He congratulated his New Westminster brethren in having solved a difficulty by virtually being partners in property which was to stand as a monument to their enterprise, and demonstrate to the world that both orders had confidence in the stability and future prosperous outlook of the Royal City. The chasm which divided the orders had been bridged by a single effort. This action hereafter ought to be the rule, and not the exception, in other parts of our Province. Where these orders were represented it would be beneficial to follow the example set them here to-day. He concluded, amidst applause, by congratulating the brethren on their good work.

The new building will be three stories high; the ground floor being occupied by three stores; in the up-stairs the Masons will have a number of offices. The Odd Fellows will have a public hall with stage and dressing rooms for entertainments. Above these the two lodge rooms will be located, there being a common entrance for both orders. The whole building, we understand, has been rented. Its cost will be in the neighborhood of $42,000, divided thus: Land and excavation, $8,000; building, $30,000; furnishing, $4,000. It will be a grand ornament to the Royal City.

LIBELLING VICTORIA.

We cannot say that our sympathies were with His Worship Mayor FELL when he threatened to muzzle the mouths of Rev. Messrs. FRASER and STARR, as we were not inclined to think that either of those gentlemen had committed a very heinous crime when they spoke, as clergymen to their congregations, of the state of morality in Victoria. We take it that it is the province of the pulpit to denounce wickedness wherever it prevails, and that it is not the duty of the press to criticise too closely the utterances of well-meaning men who are laboring honestly in the cause of right and for the elevation of the people, notwithstanding that they may occasionally err in a statement of fact, or too deeply color the darker side of the picture. But there must be a limit to the license accorded to the pulpit, and especially so when it goes far beyond the truth and libels a whole community by audacious misrepresentation. The remarks of the Rev. HUGH JOHNSON, an extract from which is published in another column, to his congregation in Toronto, is so glaringly inconsistent with actual facts as to call for an instant refutation by the press of this city. Mr. JOHNSON remained in this city for several days, and had ample opportunity to become sufficiently acquainted with the social and business life of our citizens to give a tolerably accurate description of the character of our people, and especially of the moral status of the community. We regret that such a close observer should have been so egregiously deceived, or, if accurately informed, that he should, for the purpose of "pointing a moral and adorning a tale," have resorted to flagitious exaggeration. Rev. Mr. JOHNSON says that it is difficult to meet a man in Victoria "who does not stink with liquor." A more atrocious statement was never uttered in or out of the pulpit. While it is true that the number of licensed places in Victoria is very large for the population, as compared with some eastern cities, it is untrue that intemperance has been increased to a relative extent. In proportion to population, we will undertake to say that there is less drunkenness in Victoria than in Toronto, and less profanity also. The records of the courts will prove this. "Thank God for a Toronto Sabbath," forsooth. Under the very domes of many of the hundred churches of the moral city of Toronto lewd women ply their meretricious arts, in the broad glare of day, upon passing strangers, and staggering men and women emerging from the back doors of hundreds of groggeries testify to the prevalence of intemperance. The writer has seen more intoxication in towns of from five to ten thousand population in Ontario in a month than he has observed here in a year. The number of licenses is not always a safe criterion of the drinking habits of a community, because in Ontario unlicensed gin-shops abound while in Victoria there is not one. We repeat that the observations of Mr. JOHNSON are entirely at variance with the truth. As an exponent of the Truth he owes it to himself and the community he has so atrociously maligned to recall the remarks.

ROUGH ON NOAH.

The Ottawa Free Press, referring to the rumor that Mr. N. SHAKESPEARE, M. P., is to be made postmaster, expresses itself in the following heartless manner:

"Very little regret will be felt at his departure from the House of Commons where he has been neither useful nor ornamental. During the last three or four sessions Mr. Shakespeare's function has been to sit on the back benches of the Ministerial side, while the House was in committee and yell 'carried,' whenever the chairman read the clause of a bill, or a supply resolution. It was not necessary that Mr. Shakespeare should know anything about the matter under discussion. He had a strong pair of lungs and was instructed to cry 'carried,' to everything proposed by the government. For this work he is now to be rewarded with the postmastership at Victoria. It is to be hoped that a more useful representative will be elected in his place. British Columbia should endeavor to return some members who will pay attention to the wants of the province, so that when a cabinet minister goes to the Pacific coast he may not be obliged to listen to a list of grievances and demands such as might be expected from Crow Foot or Piapot."

We think our Ottawa contemporary is unjust; certainly its remarks are unnecessarily severe on NOAH. From excellent authority we have long known that our representative was more useful to his "party" than to his constituents, but we have not forgotten that in obedience to the demands of the anti-Chinese agitation, Mr. SHAKESPEARE was instrumental, with the other members, in getting a restriction law placed upon the statute books. Although public opinion, as evinced by the legislation of the last session of the local House, has changed considerably upon that question, it is not right to rob Mr. SHAKESPEARE of his share of the credit. Apart from the Chinese law, however, we are not aware that our junior representative has ever distinguished himself in Ottawa. His non-success in attending to the requirements of his constituents may fairly be measured by the "bill of rights" presented to the Hon. THOS. WHITE by the Board of Trade a few weeks ago. Having representatives at Ottawa in active sympathy with the government, it ought not to be possible to formulate such a long list of grievances. To attend to the matters therein enumerated is the duty of the representative, and the fact that they still remain unredressed is strong prima facie evidence that the interests of the constituency has been subordinated to the interests of party.

THE VICTORIA PULPIT.

Sermon by the Rev. J. E. Starr, of the Methodist Church.

Secret and Open Discipleship of Joseph of Arithmathea.

"Joseph of Arithmathea, being a disciple of Jesus, but secretly for fear of the Jews, besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus."—John, 19th ch., 38th vs.

In taking this for his text yesterday morning, at the Pandora street Methodist Church, the Rev. Mr. Starr said: "Just as no artists can paint portraits of the same individual exactly similar in execution and style, so by the four Evangelists is given us a different familiar sketch of Joseph of Arithmathea. According to Matthew he was a rich man. By Mark he is painted in his official robes and a member of the grand council of the Jews. In the sketch drawn of him by Luke he is represented as a good man and just; a man who, having watched the career of Jesus Christ, his words and actions, and compared them with prophecies contained in the Jewish scriptures, had come to the conclusion that Jesus Christ was the promised Messiah, and waited for the Kingdom of God. According to John, Joseph of Arithmathea was a secret disciple. So fearful was he of losing cast, so afraid of losing position, that, notwithstanding his judgment was convinced, and that he believed in Jesus Christ, he had not the manliness to avow the Saviour to whom his heart belonged privately. When the proceedings were taken by the elders and council against Christ, though there is no mention that he sympathized with their action, at the same time we do not know whether he voted for the prisoner's condemnation. The probability is that just about the time the vote was to be put he had business in the lobby, or perhaps was elsewhere with Nicodemus, who also was a secret disciple. But in the hour when occurred the great tragedy of Golgotha and Jesus Christ expired, the love of Joseph of Arithmathea, overcame all restraints, and so submerged him in its rising tide that the secret disciple crossed the Rubicon of open discipleship and by his action challenged the attention of the citizens of all the world. He knew that before night the corpse of Christ was to be cut down, and with the corpses of the criminals be cast into a criminal's grave. He could not allow the poor mutilated body to be buried with the corpses of common rogues. Not he. Perhaps there was a potency of belief in his secret discipleship, far away he bounds; the fear of losing cast among the Jews not stopping him now—the thought of losing friends and position not deterring him now that the love of Christ is sustaining him, and, away he speeds, and coming hastily to Pilate begs the body of Jesus for burial. And the secret disciple became an open disciple, a professor of Christ, an avowed champion, a Christian hero.

I want to notice in the first place the reason assigned for Joseph's secrecy of discipleship. Fear of the Jews! In his own heart perhaps he had a fear lest he might not be able to comply with the requirements of Christ; but the reason assigned and the chief cause by which he was deterred from making an open avowal of Christ was the fear of the Jews, by which was meant the rulers of the Jews. They were against Jesus; and against everyone who should profess open discipleship of Christ they had decreed excommunication. Had Joseph professed the Jews would have expelled him from their synagogue, and have visited upon him their spiritual censures and social tortures; so that, notwitstanding that his judgment was convinced and he believed that Jesus was the promised Messiah, the wrath of the Jews struck him with a feeling of fear, and he shrank back from an open avowal.

And is not the same the case nowadays? In all our congregations are there not to be found secret disciples of Jesus Christ? Away back in their hearts is the natural conviction: 'Rabbi, we know that thou art the son of God,' and without open profession they are striving to be such Christians as they can, and, perhaps, humbly trusting in him for final salvation. But for anything they do for Christ no one would know they were his disciples. In the day and the hour when the bugle call is sounding the advance, and there is a crisis in the battle, instead of rallying to the front, they are lounging around their camp fires, uttering no prayer, offering no testimony, doing nothing for Christ! The day upon which some important matter is to be decided by the ballot box they are not well enough to come down town and vote. Secret disciples of the truth because of their fear. It is not from the same causes as those from which arose the fear of Joseph of Arithmathea. All these things have passed away. There is no danger now in the open avowal of discipleship of Jesus Christ. Nevertheless there are people who instead of having followed their convictions and having come out in the open discipleship of every day life to champion Christ, are living apologetic lives and get out of the way of the devil sort of lives, secretly serving Christ.

Church members and non-church members talk about religious enthusiasts being led away and controlled by their fear. Non-religious enthusiasts are led away and controlled much more frequently than are religious enthusiasts, so-called. Where there is one man who takes the course that he will be an open and pronounced follower of Jesus Christ, there are five hundred who excuse themselves from Christian duty by saying they do not feel just like it. Once thoroughly committed to Christianity you are to follow it at all risks and at all hazards with a commendable desire and determination, and the question you are wrestling with is Can I hope to remain in the path? will my strength hold out? would not it be better if I struggle awhile longer in private, and then, becoming stronger, I will come out in open discipleship. Better that than, having made open discipleship, fail and bring disgrace upon Christianity?

Did you ever hear of a man who made such an experiment and won? Is it not very much as if Hanlan should say to himself, "I am going to win that race against Beach in Australia, and in the meantime, till we get to Australia, I am going to lie in bed and gain strength?" Your strength will come as you are doing your duty, and in the meantime at your elbow encouragingly will stand our Lord Jesus Christ. Such an excuse as you would make for your conduct in such a matter is criminal; it is infamous. * * *

The richest man that ever trod on the face of this earth was Abraham, and he was a noble follower of Christ. The greatest statesman of his day was Daniel, and he was an open follower of Christ. The greatest legislator of all time was Moses; he was an open disciple, and Paul and Wilberforce, and the best and purest heads of all the ages have been open, faithful and fearless followers of Christ.

Can you then not trust God? There is no reality, you see, in the fear that is deterring you from becoming a Christian. In fact no reality, but just the feeling of fear—a ghost, a hobgoblin conjured up in your own minds. * * * *

Holding as you do the voluntarily originated opinions out of which have sprung your settled convictions, if you have concealed them, and have failed to act upon them it will only increase the cowardice of your nature, and as years go by will become a bigger, and a bigger, and a bigger coward. Besides, the secrecy of your discipleship unless it became open, will issue at last in the destruction and in the abandonment of your discipleship, leaving you stranded upon the shore of backsliding, miserable for time, and hopeless for eternity.

Not only so to yourself, but it is a duty that you owe to others, to secret, and to avowed Christians. These last Christians for weal or woe have committed themselves to the cause of Christianity, and are either right or wrong. You cannot say secret disciples that you are, that they are wrong, because you by your secret advocacy admit that they are right. You want to be what they are, and is it right? is it fair? is it honorable, is there any manliness in letting these disciples of Christianity fight your battles, and rush to the rescue and the salvation of the souls of your children, rescuing everything for the cause in which you have as much interest as they? No. It is not fair, nor right, and there is no manliness in it.

And then there are non-professors of Christianity, making two classes, to whom you owe the duty of open discipleship. There are those who are like yourselves; if you commenced open discipleship they would commence also. Perhaps they are weaker than you, and all they are wanting is to see you start, and they will commence also; just as all that Nicodemus wanted was to first witness Joseph of Arithmathea commence an open espousal of Christ; and then there are those who do not profess any discipleship of Christ, and are in no way disciples: do you not owe it to them that you should be an open disciple. Why, you are making a false representation of what a disciple of Christ should be. Some of them perhaps think that having the proof in you that Jesus Christ is not necessary to Godliness and goodness of life, have never argued whether they are in need of a Saviour; they do not know that whatever Godliness of life you have you owe it to Jesus; they have not heard you say so, and it would greatly startle them to tell them so. But tell them so, openly and publicly, the glorious fact. 'All that I am to-day I owe to the Lord Jesus Christ.' On one occasion a young minister stood up and related his experience: "My father, mother, and nine brothers and sisters," he remarked, "were infidels. "Coming home on the night on which I was converted, the thought flushed upon me that they would but laugh at me should I tell them; and putting up my horse I entered the house and retired, saying nothing. And so things went on until one day, chopping with my eldest brother, we sat down on a log to rest; and I said: Tom, do you know I was converted the other day? Receiving no reply I looked up in his face. The tears were standing in his eyes, and he said: Do you think there is any hope for me? And that night Tom and I went to church together, and God gave him pardon for his sins. Going home, we reached the house just as the folks were retiring, when I said: Mother, do you mind if Tom and I read a chapter from the Bible, and say prayers? I noticed mother quivered, and said, No! Henry, and before we got up from our knees that night mother was saved; and there, said the minister pointing down the congregation, "there is my old father, the last of the family, and all saved." * * * Oh, that same Joseph of Arithmathea would commence an open discipleship this morning and start some wavering Nicodemus! * * Joseph of Arithmathea was too much of a gentleman to be mixed with the mob at crucifixions. What was the cause then of his revealing his faith? I think it was the thought of Jesus Christ on yonder cross dying for him. Within the curtain of the Holy of Holies came to him while he dwelt upon the thought, a mountain of manifestation of Christ's wrong and the way in which he himself stood—a secret disciple. The thought of Jesus Christ dying on the cross for the world! Joseph of Arithmathea, as a sign of his open discipleship, brought myrrh and aloes with which to embalm the body of our Lord. But we have no myrrh nor aloes; what shall we bring? Oh! out of our hearts to-day let us bring the sweet-smelling savor of a Christian service, and, since there can be no better than the present time, let us bring in this glorious Sabbath hour an exchange of secret discipleship for open championship.

Catarrah, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever is cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Standard.

ACTORS' MEMORIES.

THE FANTASTIC TRICKS THEY PLAY THEIR POSSESSORS.

Why Men Stumble in Familiar Roles. Lines Which Will Not Stay Learned. Improvising a Part—Jumping a Whole Act.

"It always seemed queer to me," said an actor who had gray hair to give weight to his opinion, "that somebody doesn't write a book on the psychological aspect of life on the stage. Probably the actor has as large an opportunity of becoming acquainted with curious phenomena of the human intellect as any man that lives. The curious freaks of superstitious fancy that afflict some of the best known actors are old themes of discussion. Some think they can't act if they see a horse of a certain color, or if they don't wear a certain dress, or if they play in a certain house. Some actors have played one part so many times that the work has become entirely mechanical, and they forget how far along they have got in the play. Under some conditions of mind—not induced by drink either—the oldest actor is liable to miss a cue or cut a fellow actor out of his lines, no matter if he knows the play so well that he can repeat the whole thing from beginning to end. I have known even so careful and thorough an actor as Lawrence Barrett, who has played 'Richelieu' thousands of times, I suppose, to get thrown off the tracks in the first interview between the cardinal and Julie, and have to go back to his first speech to get it right. Not long ago I heard Frederick Warde, in expatiating on his favorite play, 'Damon and Pythias,' a play in which he has acted principal or subordinate parts for fifteen years, utterly fail to recall three lines from the very passage he was wont to deliver with the greatest effect from the stage.

"But the most curious freak of the actor's memory, and the one to my mind furtherest from any rational explanation, is the way it will sometimes, and for no apparent cause, utterly refuse to take any impression at all. I remember very well the first experience of that kind I ever had. I was in the company of a well known tragedian of this city. A change in the cast had given me the part of Baradas two days before 'Richelieu' was to be performed. I was fairly familiar with the part and thought I would have no difficulty in becoming dead letter perfect in it. I studied all my lengths that night until I knew them pretty well, and the next day went at them again. To my speechless horror I discovered that all that I had studied had escaped from my mind. Read the lines over as many times as I would and strive as hard as I would to impress them on my mind, not one would stick. If I should ever become a raving maniac I would never be a more pitiable object than I was that day. I locked myself in my room and refused to eat while I went over the lines to myself as Nicholas Nickleby went over the apothecary's lines to poor Smike. Toward evening I began to get the better of them and when I went to the theatre I had them all pat. I had regained a great deal of my confidence and thought I should have no more trouble.

"Imagine my feelings when I discovered, as I heard my first cue, that the whole part had got away from me. I stood before that sea of upturned faces with no idea of what I was going to say. At last I found my voice, and said something—I don't know what. Such a version of Baradas no audience ever listened to as mine was that night. I struggled on making up sentences as I went along, and trying to keep what I said within the general plot of the play, of which I had a fairly distinct impression. I don't suppose what I said sounded half as bad to others as it did to me, for the people in the wings told me afterward that few persons not familiar with the text would have suspected there was anything serious the matter.

"As soon as I was off the stage I made a rush for the dressing room, grabbed a play book and laboriously studied my next lengths until I was to go on again. It was of no use. I couldn't remember a word of my part when I got before the footlights. Desperation came to my aid, however. I plunged in boldly and got through an improvisation that would have made Bulwer's hair stand on end, without any bad breaks. That night when I was getting into bed, utterly disgusted with myself, all those lines came back to me in a heap, and for weeks and weeks they haunted me. They took such complete possession of me that I could scarcely drive them out of my head when the time came to learn another part.

"That was ten years ago, and I never had a touch of the malady again until last winter. We were trying a new piece on the dog' in Providence. We had had it in rehearsal for some time and I supposed I knew all my part and business as well as I knew my own name. I was the villain, and in the fourth act was to quarrel with and stab my accomplice in crime, for which I was to be sentenced to death after confessing all my villainy. In the next act I had a scene with the hero just before the quarrel, and I'm blessed if I didn't forget lines, business and everything else. Jumping away down to the end of the act, I killed the hero. The author of the play, who was sitting in a box, must have been paralyzed at the liberty I took with his text, and the audience must have thought it very strange that the hero should come to life so readily in the next act, and that I should be sentenced to death for merely trying to kill him. But the 'dog' lived, and I got off with a scorching from the manager."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Dry and Wet Timber.

A discussion is going the rounds of the press as to the relative strength of wet or dry timber. We do not believe there is much to be made out of the discussion. Some kinds of timber are stronger when dry, while other kinds are stronger when wet or green. But most hard woods when wet will possess more tensile strength than when dry. Timber thoroughly seasoned is more brittle than when green, and with the necessary force will break square off, while the same timber green will stand about the same pressure by bending more or less without breaking. Take a hickory sapling that is almost impossible to break in its green state, although it may bend double, and thoroughly dry it, and you may easily break it almost "square off," as the boys say. So with almost any kind of timber. Drying makes it stiffer, more unyielding, but in very few instances stronger.—Scientific Press.

At the Royal Institution, London, Mr. Wimshurst has exhibited an exceedingly interesting experiment, in which small type, placed on a disk revolving several thousand times a minute, was distinctly seen and read while in motion. This was accomplished by means of an electrical arrangement, which caused brilliant sparks to illuminate the print at the exact instant only when the type was vertical. But for the buzzing produced by the great velocity of the disk the words would have been supposed to be at rest. This beautiful application of the electric spark gives a ready means of observing any and all changes which may take place in either matter or machinery in rapid motion.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Musical composers are indebted to science for two new instruments. The melograph is designed to accurately record the notes of any tune played upon a piano, and the melotrope has just been devised in France to faithfully reproduce upon any piano the pieces automatically copied by the first apparatus.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Class Feeling at Yale.

Class feeling at Yale is very strong—much stronger than at Harvard or other seats of learning. From the time a freshman enters college to the day of his graduation he never tires of inscribing his class numerals on recitation benches, the doors of his apartments, or other places where they would be conspicuous. Loyalty to one's class is most extravagantly displayed among the sophomores and freshmen, and becomes less noticeable, although perhaps just as strong, toward the end of the four years' course. In any matter in which the interests, athletic or otherwise, of the whole universe are involved, all class feeling disappears and the entire student community becomes a unit in the support of its alma mater. A Yale man is a Yale man the country over, and, be he rich or poor, he is welcomed by any Yale alumnus whom he may meet with a cordiality that admits of no restraint and a heartiness that quickly sweeps away all barriers.

The man who assists in hazing you in freshman year, and who compels you to stand on a street corner and scan Greek verse for the edification of the bystanders, is no less your friend because he enjoys your discomfiture while passing through the ordeal which he himself was obliged to undergo the year before. Although hazing, in its offensive signification, is practically dead and buried at Yale, a few of the old time customs are still tenderly cherished by the sophomores. Despite the assertions of the daily press, there are no such outrages perpetrated as were of frequent occurrence in the college days of our fathers and grandfathers. The "freshest" freshmen are not treated to any greater indignity than being compelled to drink hot beer through a straw or to sip milk from a nursing bottle. College sentiment no longer sanctions the barbarous treatment formerly inflicted on new comers to Yale, and all objectionable forms of hazing are frowned upon by the students and the faculty alike.—Arthur Edmunds Jenks in Lippincott's.

A Queen Who Is a Conjurer.

But few persons are aware of the fact that Queen Marie Henriette, of Belgium, is one of the cleverest conjurers in Europe. When in 1882 the famous magician, Professor Hermann, arrived at Brussels on his way to the sea baths at Ostende, one of the queen's chamberlains called at his hotel and inquired if he was the same Professor Hermann who had formerly given sleight of hand performances at the palace of the queen's father, the Archduke Palatine, of Austria. On ascertaining this to be a fact he informed him that her majesty would be glad to receive him in private audience the next day. The queen received him most kindly, and after talking of old times expressed a wish to learn sleight of hand. Professor Hermann gladly consented to teach her his tricks, and during the following four weeks he spent daily several hours in initiating her as an adept of the black art.

Of course these lessons took place with locked doors, the professor having made a point of insisting that nobody else should be present besides his royal pupil and himself. The queen displayed a remarkable talent in acquiring the art, and many were the tricks which she subsequently practiced on her family and attendants. Professor Hermann, who died recently, leaving an enormous fortune, absolutely refused to accept any remuneration for his services; the queen, however, met the difficulty by sending a magnificent bracelet and a pair of diamond earrings to the professor's wife. Only a short time before his death he received an autograph letter from the queen congratulating him in the kindest manner on his seventieth birthday, and adding "Do not be afraid. I have not divulged your secrets to any one."—New York World.

The City of Tangier.

Tangier, as seen from the bay, is certainly beautiful. The white, flat roofed houses; the tall, graceful towers of the mosques; the date palms rising majestically, their tufts of evergreen leaves resembling crests; the quaint century old Kasba, the fortress walls gray and worn and broken with age, are all a picture, a pleasing picture to the eye. But when you land, what a change! The white houses are sadly in need of cleaning, the mosques need renovating, the Kasba loses its charm, and the streets are so narrow and so dirty that to call them filthy only half describes their condition. In a distance of less than 800 feet I counted in one of the less than seven feet wide streets a dozen dead cats, rats, chickens and dogs, thirteen heaps of garbage and two piles of manure. From this it can be inferred that the smells of Tangier are more pleasant to imagine than to experience. And yet, strange to say, it is a wonderfully healthy city. Smallpox, scarlet fever, measles and diphtheria are by no means uncommon, but are seldom severe. Typhoid and typhus fever are the only frequently fatal diseases. The death rate is not high, although among the Moors, who form the larger part of the population, it is contrary to their religion to employ doctors.—Tangier Cor. Philadelphia Call.

What They Think of New York.

The chimney piece was covered with bric a brac to make a collector's mouth water, and on the long fire shelf lay a lot of pipes. They were of many kinds and shapes and colors, and the long clay Gouda pipes, looking modern enough and commonplace enough to every one who has ever blown a soap bubble, occupied an honored place among them.

The custodian told us gravely enough that the Gouda pipes were in great demand in a place in America called New York. He was good enough to mention that every one in New York came originally from Holland, and that the chief amusement of the people was to meet at the Knickerbocker club, sit around great round tables and smoke the Gouda pipes, while singing the praises of old Holland, especially Delft Haven, where the pilgrims sailed from. Who was to tell a man with such simple, genuine faith in his little wet country that the New York Knickerbocker never looks up his ancestral family when he goes to Holland for fear that he may find it, and that the Knickerbocker club was a rather more elaborate affair than his fancy painted?—Holland Cor. The Argonaut.

A Monster Tool.

One of the finest and most powerful tools that mechanical science has yet achieved has just been finished at Mulhouse for the French navy. It is a two carriage universal lathe, which is a complete machine shop in itself, being capable of performing the most varied operations—such as mortising, shaping, boring and molding—with the most perfect accuracy. It is wonderfully adapted to the delicate and complicated working of pieces for armor plating turrets, of helix supports, of rudders, of cranked shafts, of pistons, &c., for modern war vessels, and it handles and shapes immense masses of steel almost as skillfully as the carpenter carves small blocks of wood. Its weight is more than 840 tons, and it is driven by an engine of twenty-five horse power. Comparison of this tool with one of seventy-six tons, which was a mechanical marvel some twenty-five years ago, gives a striking illustration of the almost incredible progress of our generation.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Too Heating for Summer Food.

"Look at that man pouring corn into his oats bag," said a driver this morning contemptuously. "It's a wonder that he doesn't know better. It is entirely too heating; it's winter food; oats is summer food, because it's cooling. It's with horses like it's with us. Such a man could be dumb enough to eat decaying salmon."—Philadelphia Call.

Smoke "Creme de la Creme" Cigars.

From Georgetown.

The steamer Nell, Capt. Madden, arrived at 8 o'clock this morning from Georgetown, with a load of salmon from the Inverness cannery. Four west coast Indians and two white men, who were on the vessels seized in Behring seas, came down, and about twenty more are at Fort Simpson, having made their way there in canoes from Sitka. Mr. Geo. Willisecroft, the owner of the Nell, was also a passenger.

Really! The Creme de la Creme.

The Fruit Industry.

California's fruit canning industry has assumed vast proportions within the last few years. It has nearly trebled in a decade, the pack of last season exceeding 760,000 cases, and that of 1887 is estimated to be at least 30 per cent. larger, making the production nearly 1,000,000 cases. Fully 80 per cent. of these canned goods are marketed east of the Rocky Mountains, not a few of them being sold for direct export to Europe.

Tony Cigars.

A Slight Mishap.

The Princess Louise, in reaching the C. P. R. wharf at Vancouver yesterday, became a little refractory and ran against the Parthia and the Robert Kerr. She did not sustain much damage. A cut off valve did not act as it should at that moment, which was the cause of the steamer becoming slightly unmanageable. The anchor of the Parthia caused the damage to the railing, which is being repaired this afternoon.

Gladstone Cigars.

Important.

The goods damaged by water in consequence of the fire in the Arcade building will be sold at private sale commencing on Tuesday at Spencer's Arcade. Brussels Carpets, Tapestry Carpet, Felt and Hemp Carpet, Rope Matting, Kidderminster and Three-ply Carpets, Hearthrugs, Mats.

Men's and Boys' Hats, Caps, Ties, Gloves, Shirts, Socks, Underwear; also the goods damaged by the smoke. All goods will be marked in plain figures and sold for cash only. *

Odd Fellowship.

The ceremony of laying the corner stone in the Odd Fellows' Hall, New Westminster, was performed by Bro. Joshua Davies, of this city, Grand Master of the order in British Columbia. He was assisted by D. G. M., H. Meldrum, G. Secretary, Fred Davey, G. Treasurer, Walter Walker, G. Chaplain Evans, P. G. M.'s Roberts, F. Carne, Wm. McColl and others. The ceremony was in accordance with the impressive ritual of the order.

Coal in San Francisco.

The item in Saturday's TIMES relative to the price of coal in San Francisco, does not place the matter in a proper light. It is claimed by the retail dealers that the margin allowed them was not sufficient to remunerate them for handling the black diamonds. An advance in the cost of transportation has also taken place. The actual advance is less than 50c per ton, as the discounts, fixed upon, which range from $1 to $1.50 per ton, according to quantity purchased and terms of payment, reduces the price by the sums just named.

A New Coaling Station.

A cablegram announces that in view of the further development of British trade on the route via Canada to Japan and China, the establishing of a coaling station in the North Pacific, in substitution for Port Hamilton is regarded here in military circles as of pressing necessity. Lord Sidmouth has given notice that he will raise the question in Parliament early next session. It is suggested that coaling stations on Harbor Island, which lies between the southern point of Japan and Island Loo Choo, might meet the requirements of the case, being somewhat in the Vancouver steamship route.

The Mexico's Passengers.

Following is the list of passengers for Victoria by the Mexico this morning: F E Newberger, R Pittock, F Engleman, F N Lee, J McCrea, J E Chipman, R W Hills, H B Bishop and wife, Miss M Farren, A W Croft, A Pozzi, H F Chaffee, G G Merritt, A F Barthart and wife, A S Parley, wife and son, W G Swaiwell, Jno Scraf, M Summerfield, C H Englimann and wife, Mrs Miller and daugher, P Murphy, Mr James, J Tasse, Miss Campbell, Thos R Gibson, J N Zaller, J W Morden, T S Gosnell, R Kennedy, Mrs J W Morden, A H Perley, Mrs Taft, G E Reid, B S Cook.

The Savings Banks.

On the 30th of last June there stood to the credit of depositors in the P. O. Savings Bank of Canada the sum of $19,497,750.15. Depositors held cheques not presented for payment to the extent of $73,273.43, making a total of $20,031,057.88. Deposits in this branch of the service are increasing very rapidly, the ratio being in the neighborhood of $500,000 a month.

In the Government Savings Banks on the 30th June the deposits amounted to $21,834,525.22, which also is a large increase over the previous month. In the Victoria office the deposits on the 30th of June amounted to $1,568,256.92; Nanaimo, $255,986.38; New Westminster, $288,229.69.

Earth to Earth.

The mortal remains of the late Mrs. Whitlaw were laid to rest yesterday in Ross Bay cemetery. The funeral cortege left St. Joseph's Hospital at the hour appointed, and Christ's Church Cathedral shortly after 2 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Beanlands officiated. The remains were enclosed in a handsome casket, which was covered with elaborate floral tributes sent by friends of the deceased. The attendance was large. As the body was lowered to its last resting place the impressive Episcopal Church service was read by the Rev. Mr. Beanlands in presence of the large assemblage which surrounded the grave. Messrs. Alex. Wilson, W. Shears, S. Reid, H. Young, A. J. Smith, H. Helgesen and Richard Hall were the pall bearers.

Fruit Consignments.

The Mexico this morning brought consignments of fruit to the following parties: British Columbia Fruit Co., 53 box; Clarke & Co., 30 boxes; E. W. Rogers, Vancouver, 19 boxes; Cormancher & McMullen, Vancouver, 63 boxes; H. A. Dilley, Victoria, 116 boxes; J. Coning, Vancouver, 58 boxes; J. & A. Clearihue, Victoria, 253 boxes; N. Portman, Victoria, 46 boxes; R. Baker & Son, 244 boxes; R. T. Mezoney, 37 boxes; R. V. Wench, Vancouver, 126 boxes; S. J. Pitts, Victoria, 1000 boxes; S. Leiser, 869 boxes; Vair & Brooks, 135 boxes; W. H. Kenniston, Calgary, 50 boxes; W. Templeton, Vancouver, 17 boxes.

Mr Simon Leiser was to-day notified that 200 boxes of fruit for him, per train from Vacaville had reached San Francisco too late for last Friday's steamer. Mr Pitts' consignment of 1041 boxes is the largest single importation ever brought to Victoria.

Give Them a Chance.

That is to say, your lungs. Also all your breathing machinery. Very wonderful machinery it is. Not only the larger air-passages, but the thousands of little tubes and cavities leading from them.

When these are clogged and choked with matter which ought not to be there, your lungs cannot half do their work. And what they do, they cannot do well.

Call it cold, cough, croup, pneumonia, catarrh, consumption or any of the family of throat and nose and head and lung obstructions, all are bad. All ought to be got rid of. There is just one sure way to get rid of them. That is to take Boschee's German Syrup, which any druggist will sell you at 75 cents a bottle. Even if everything else has failed you, you may depend upon this for certain. *

Well Received.

The members of the Masonic and Odd Fellow fraternities, who visited Westminster last Saturday, on the occasion of the laying of the corner-stone in the Masonic and Odd Fellow's building, are loud in their praise of the treatment accorded them by the resident brethren. Not only were they entertained at a banquet in the evening but their entire expenses whilst in that city were paid, they being in short the guests of the brethren in the Royal City. The banquet in the evening was held in the Skating rink and was a splendid affair, there being over 250 present. The chairs were occupied by the masters of the respective lodges having the distinguished visiting brethren on their right and left. The principal speakers on the occasion were Grand Masters Milne and Davies and their officers. It was close upon midnight when the affair broke up. It was a most enjoyable one and greatly appreciated by those who took part in it.

Aid from the K. of L.

Mr. W. H. Bailey, of Philadelphia, representing the general executive committee of the Knights of Labor, will leave for Vancouver to-morrow, and after holding a meeting there will proceed via the C. P. R. to the east. To the TIMES reporter he stated that the object of his visit to this province was to investigate the condition of the families of the members of the order who lost their lives in the late colliery explosion, and to leave them such financial aid as they might require. Twenty-one Knights were victims in the disaster, and of that number fifteen left widows and families. Mr. Bailey found no extreme want, the general committee having provided for the immediate wants of the sufferers. He distributed several thousand dollars among those entitled to assistance at the hands of the organization. Several of the families in question will remove to other cities in the east, where they have friends and where they can find opportunities for providing for themselves.

Slightly Astray.

The Vancouver News-Advertiser claims that the combined population of these two places (New Westminster and Vancouver) is already larger than that of Victoria, and either city in the course of a few years will be equal in size, and will probably far exceed her.

The present population of Victoria is fully 12,000 and increasing at a ratio second only to that of Vancouver, whose growth within the past year has been truly phenomenal—a condition of things the terminal city's inhabitants have just reason to be proud of—but when our esteemed contemporary of the News-Advertiser makes such bold statements as the one we have just quoted some one has been drawing the long bow over him. Victoria's population is equal to that of all the cities in the Province, with another Vancouver or two thrown in. A stern chase is a long one; whilst her sister cities are reaching out—and we are pleased to observe that they are doing so—Victoria is not standing still.

Silver Trowels.

The silver trowel presented by the Masonic fraternity of New Westminster was manufactured by Mr. W. H. Pennock, of this city, and reflects great credit on the capabilities of that gentleman and his ability to turn out a beautifully artistic article. Following is the inscription engraved on the trowel: "Presented to Bro. A. R. Milne, M. W. Grand Master, by Union Lodge No. 9; on the occasion of laying of the corner-stone of Masonic Hall, New Westminster, B. C., Aug. 27, 1887."

Mr. Joshua Davies was also presented with a solid silver trowel by the Odd Fellows, designed and manufactured by Mr. C. E. Redfron. The handle is of polished lignumvitæ, neatly encircled with silver rings and a ferrull. It is an exceedingly neat, chaste affair, and its possessor is justly proud of so handsome a tool being given him by his brethren. The following inscription is engraved on its face: "Presented to G. M. Joshua Davies by New Westminster Lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F., on occasion of laying the corner-stone of their hall, Aug. 27, 1887."

—Money saved by having your plans made by Fraser, the Architect. *

HEARTLESS OFFICIALS.

The Sufferings of the Crew of the Schooner Sayward.

Thomas E. Spencer, a boat-puller on the W. P. Sayward, one of the schooners seized by the American revenue cutter in Behring Sea, arrived in Victoria to-day on the steamer Nell, of Georgetown. To a reporter of THE TIMES, Mr. Spencer gave the following account of the hardships of himself and other members of the crew after leaving Sitka: The Sayward was seized about midway when eighty-eight miles off the Island of Ounalaska, the nearest land. She had on board five hundred skins none of which were caught in Behring Sea, where she had arrived only four days before. The Sayward was taken in tow to Ounalaska where she arrived about two o'clock next morning. All the skins were removed, and the schooner was towed out to the Pacific Ocean and navigated to Sitka by the crew in charge of a man from the cutter. At Sitka, the crew, numbering twenty-five, were allowed to leave in six canoes and one boat. They were provided with only seven days provisions by the officials in charge of the Sayward, and their voyage occupied seventeen days. Two pieces of salt port, six tins of preserved salmon, one box of biscuits and two boxes of flour comprised all their stores. A gale of wind detained them for three days at whale Bay, and the provisions got wet and damaged. Four days more brought them to Red Bay, and from thence three days were occupied in reaching Safety Cove, where the Pinta was at anchor. The suffering of the men from exposure and slow starvation were terribly severe during the latter portion of the voyage. For days all they had to eat was picked up on the sea beach, and comprised muscles and other shell fish. The Pinta sold the men enough provisions to take them to Fort Simpson where the H. B. Co. people and others received them with open arms. Mr. Spencer speaks in strong terms of censure against the U. S. officials for sending them adrift on such a long voyage with a totally inadequate supply of provisions, and most people will agree in thinking that his denunciations are fully justified by the circumstances.

The Stone Man.

It is likely we have now heard the last of the stone man for some time. The fossil was boxed and shipped to-day by Capt. McCallum on board the Titania for London, where it will be handed over to the British museum, at the gallant Captain's request.

The Barnard Castle.

This steamer was sold at noon to-day by Capt. Clarke, on Messrs. Hall, Goepel & Co.'s wharf, the purchaser being Mr. W. E. Blackett, and the price $1,975. She has about 2,600 tons on board of Wellington coal. Capt. Birmingham, her late owner, abandoned the work of getting her afloat. The new proprietor is to try his hand at the job and bring her to the dry dock at Esquimalt.

Cremation.

The alarm of fire at 2 p. m. to-day was caused by a fire in the old cemetery on Quadra street. The Chinese have been burning papers in the cemetery for the past two days and the fire caught the high grass. A number of graves and fences caught fire, but it was extinguished by a few citizens and the hook and ladder company. This practice of lighting fires in a grave yard should be stopped by the cemetery committee.

Buried Treasure.

The Chinese engaged in grading the railway extension on the Indian reserve picked up a number of American half-dollar silver coins yesterday in the vicinity in which they were working. Some eight or ten pieces were found, the remainder of the pot no doubt having been scattered in the blasting of the out. The discovery recalls to mind famous stories of the hidden wealth of Capt. Kidd, which was said to be buried along the shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and for which so many fruitless searches have been made. Some of the coins bear the date 1880, and therefore cannot have been very long buried.

Alaskan News.

A Juneau letter, written on the 14th, says: Things look very prosperous here, Newell's company have started to put the mill up. Pitz is back and has a Huntingdon mill almost completed in Silver Bow Basin. He will be ready to run in about a week; capacity, twenty tons a day. There are no idle men in Juneau who want to work. A town has started at Berner's Bay, and Ned Decker has a store there and is doing very well. Price & Johnson has their Huntingdon mill running and are doing well. There is no news from the Yukon. We are thinking here that there are good diggings around Stewart river, or there would be some one out before now.

Dan Campbell met with an accident in his claim; came mighty near killing him, but he is able to walk around again. Louie Gramer also got caught in a cave-in; he is in the hospital yet.
